P: In Reply to a Remonstrance Addressed by Him to the Lord Bishop of London And this, too, at the very time that he was actually in league with her bitter and intolerant persecutors, and doing her all the mischief in his power. But alas! there is too much truth in the former part of your own quotation from Dr. Nowell, that many, by hypocrisy and counterfeiting of godliness, do join themselves to the fellowship of the visible church. Such unworthy conduct however I will venture to hope is confined to a few only who have some base interest to consult, or some private malignity to gratify. What could induce you, a professed member of the church to become an ally of dissent, and to strut forward as a sort of champion of the armies of the Philistines would seem at first sight rather difficult to conjecture. On revolving the matter in my mind, however, it soon occurred to me, that you had some other reason for writing your pamphlet than that which directly appeared on the face of it. In a letter to a friend I expressed it as my firm opinion, that you were endeavouring to ingratiate yourself with the dissenters, for the purpose of securing their assistance in obtaining a seat in Parliament And lo! three or four days afterwards, the Patriot Newspaper, the dissenting organ, brought me the intimation of your having gone down to Ashburton to canvass the electors of that borough. And it is perhaps not too much to say, that you were sent thither by the Dissenters Parliamentary Committee; whose worldly-mindedness...
