Reviews

This type of publication is every thing and helped me seeking ahead and much more. It usually fails to charge too much. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

Not illustrated. 1846 Excerpt: . . . in her front door, the widow, though she could scarcely move before, was nimble enough to escape by a back passage unobserved, and rallied her neighbors, who at a cautious distance fired into the house at the robbers, who scampered out pell-mell, and not one was seized. One of the robbers (who was a neighbor) asked a lad in bed if he knew him. The affrighted little fellow luckily replied in the negative, and so saved his life. As the inmates of the house told the robbers (to get rid of them) that Capt. N. Ludlam had their money, the Capt. felt apprehensive of a like visit, and obtained an order from the commandant at Jamaica to set a patrol from his house (now D. I. Ditmiss) to Boxs tavern, and thence to Ambergmans gate, Rockaway road. The alarm signal was one discharge, a pause, then two in quick succession. One man was shot by this patrol. Squire B. Everitt, (now H. Storys,) treasurer of the Presbyterian church, heard a knocking at his door, which he opened, when he was knocked down and severely beaten, to make him disclose his money. He said he had but little; and this, crawling to his chest, he gave the robbers. 282. One Sunday night, the latter part of the war, the house of Wm. Ludlam, Bog Lots, was robbed of linen, clothing, and c. A sum of money hid behind the chimney escaped notice. The robbers surrounded the...
