Excerpt: . . . theatres, switchboards are frequently located above the floor of the stage, but this should be done only when it is known that the crew will be so numerous as to provide the electrician with sufficient assistants so that he will not have any duties to perform requiring his presence on the floor of the stage during the show. In general, it will make for economy to locate the board on the floor, and it will not lessen its efficiency or that of its operator. Incidental Rooms Strange as it may seem, it is not unusual for theatres to be planned and built without proper provision for the various rooms needed for accommodation of the several departments of the house. To provide a check against this possible oversight, the rooms or quarters now considered most essential in the modern theatre are: Managers office; superintendents office; janitors and cleaners, ushers dressing, ladies, gentlemen, supply (adjacent to managers or superintendents), property, electricians, stage managers, carpenters and musicians rooms, toilets and any others deemed necessary for the requirements of a particular theatre. These should be allowed for, and their ventilation and light in the planning. If practicable, a cleaners room, with runn hot and cold water and large slop-sink, sho be planned for each floor of the theatre, w. space within the closet for hanging mo brooms, dust cloths, dusters, etc. A simil, room should be placed under the stage. Boiler rooms should be located with speck reference...
