No. 44 The Milk Dealers Licensing and Bonding Law The Milk Dealers Licensing and Bonding Law By Paul B. Bennetch, Specialist in Dairy Products Marketing. At the request of a number of producers of milk in the state, the 1917 Legislature enacted what is commonly known as The Milk Dealers Licensing and Bonding Law, Chapter 74, Laws of 1917, designed to protect producers against loss from the sale of milk or cream to buyers who are not financially responsible. The State Department of Agriculture was charged with the enforcement of this law. The need for such protection on the part of the milk producers of the state arose from the fact that much of the milk produced is distributed in our largest cities by small milk vendors, some of whom have very little capital to commence business and frequently do business on the...
